About GeeksforGeeks:
GeeksforGeeks was conceived with the noble vision of disseminating programming knowledge by Mr. Sandeep Jain, an esteemed alumnus of IIT Roorkee. GeeksforGeeks serves as a holistic resource for individuals who are passionate about programming or seek guidance in overcoming challenges related to interview preparation, mastering data structures and algorithms, and various other aspects of computer science. Our offerings span a wide spectrum, ranging from in-depth articles covering diverse computer science topics to an array of programming problems designed for rigorous practice. Moreover, we provide a curated selection of basic and premium courses, encompassing a wide range of technologies and preparation resources for entrance examinations. We take immense pride in consistently delivering content of the highest quality.

In a relatively short period, GeeksforGeeks has successfully cultivated a global community comprising over 1 million enthusiastic Geeks, empowered by the contributions of more than 20,000 contributors. We are also proud to have established a network of 500+ Campus Ambassadors representing us in various colleges across the nation. Many of our success stories narrate the journeys of students who have substantially benefited from GeeksforGeeks, ultimately securing coveted positions at renowned tech giants. Our overarching vision is to construct an expansive network of like-minded individuals, and we are currently just a fraction of the way towards realizing this vision.
